ALF Administrator Training Requirement

The administrators of assisted living facilities (ALF) are required to meet minimum training and education requirements that are established in administrative rule 59A-36.011, F.A.C. This training and education is intended to assist facilities appropriately respond to the needs of residents, maintain resident care and facility standards, and meet licensure requirements pursuant to section 429.52\(1\), F.S.

The ALF core training requirements established by rule consist of a minimum of 26 hours of training provided by an approved Core Training Provider and a passing score of 75% or more on the core competency test administered by the University of South Florida.

Administrators are required to successfully complete the ALF core training requirements within 3 months from the date of becoming a facility administrator or manager. Successful completion of the core training requirements includes passing the core competency test.

- To find a core training course near you, please review the list of approved state core trainers.
- To register for the Core Competency Test, please visit the Center for Research, Assessment and Measurement at the University of South Florida.

Administrator Continuing Education

In addition to the required training to become an assisted living facility administrator, administrators and managers must also participate in 12 hours of continuing education in topics related to assisted living every 2 years. A newly hired administrator or manager, who has successfully completed the ALF core training and continuing education requirements, are not required to retake the core training. An administrator or manager, who has successfully completed the core training but has not maintained the continuing education requirements, is considered a new administrator or manager for the purposes of the core training requirements. He or she will have to retake the ALF core training and retake and pass the competency test.
